“POLICING OUR TOWN” DEBUTS ON HCTV-23

Herndon, VA (March 20, 2006) – “Policing Our Town,” a half-hour show produced by the Town of Herndon’s Police Department in conjunction with Herndon Community Television, is now airing on HCTV-23.

Herndon Police Chief Toussaint E. Summers, Jr., hosts the program, which features a mix of safety tips, crime alerts and general information regarding law enforcement throughout the Town.

“The Police Department operates in partnership with the Herndon community,” said Summers. “This program introduces the officers, programs and priorities of the department to citizens – and, hopefully, helps them become engaged and informed about the safety of our Town.”

Topics covered in the first installment of “Policing Our Town” include community policing, methods for preventing identity theft and an update on crimes throughout the community. Future programs will include information on disaster preparedness, reporting suspicious activity and programs that combat drinking and driving. “Policing Our Town” will be produced monthly.
